Mr. Wade and Mr. Colfax both doubt whether there will be a quorum present at noon on Monday, but Mr. Colfax says in conversation that either house can take a recess from time to time until a quorum arrives, thus extending the legislative day of Monday indefinitely. Vineland Peace Convention.

Vinetand, Sept. 17, 1868.

The reformatory people of this place have just been holding some four sessions on the question of radical peace. The Universal Peace Union had been invited to occupy Plum Street Hall, and on Saturday last, at 74 P. M., the hall was well filled, and the exercises intensely interesting. The President, A. H. Love, of Philadelphia, occupied the chair, and presented the subject in all its practical and poten-

Among those present, some of whom took an active part, were Rachel M. Townsend, T. Ellwood Chapman, C. B. Rogers, Sarah T. Rogers, William J. Mullen, and Ebenezer James, of Philadelphia; John and Mary Child, Darby; of Philadelphia; John and Mary Child, Darby; Mahlon B. Linton, Bucks county; and Job Wilbur, of New York. Oscar Clute, the Unitarian minister, and Deborah L. Butler, Charles Butler, Jonathan Wilde, Dr. Coniey, C. B. Campbell, Mr. Thomas, and others of Vineland took part. Some close questions were asked and answered, and the fullest liberality and good feeling prevailed. There was a universal admission that the doctrine and principles were good and grand, but some expressed a difficulty in living up to them. Among the resolutions presented was the following, which explains the principal topic before the meeting: Whereas We are for freedom and not for slavery; for equal rights and not for casie; for human happipeas and not for misery; for construction and lestruction; for life and not for man killing; and

Whereas, war is antagonistic to these highest con-victions of our nature, we are

Resolved, That we will relax no effort to remove the causes that make war possible, and to sholish the custom of war, even when the iniquity of man seems to render it inevitable.

There were further resolutions, stating how these ends should be attained. There was one for the principles of love, justice, and truth: for disarmament and arbitration the world over; for an International Congress, with the pledge behind it that deadly force shall never be the ultimatum. One was against military academies and military prepations. One against capital punishment and the better treatment of the Indians. A memorial to Congress and a letter to the Indians were adopted. Letters were read from friends in various States; pamphlets and books were circulated, and a number of names presented for membership. There were three meetings held the next day and largely attended, when a State Branch Society was formed, with Deborah L. Butler, of Vineland, as President, Carriages were generously offered the friends at the close of each meeting; all who wished were driven through this improving settlement.

People of the Orkneys. The following is from Daniel Gorrie's "Summers and Winters in the Orkneys':-The peasantry, as a class, are frugal and indus-trious, grave in demeanor, and quiet in their It is rare to find one of their number who can neither read nor write, and they seem all to have been well grounded in the facts and doctrines of the Bible. Their piety is of the old, doctrines of the Bible. Their piety is of the old, simple, sincere, undoubting, unquestioning type. A certain rudeness of speech and manner, which once characterized the people, has disappeared under the influence of wider culture, and carnest evangelical preaching in the muiti plied churches of the islands. The celebrated visit of the Haldanes, towards the close of the last century, produced bene-ficial results, and helped the formation of religious habits. Whatever may now be the case in other parts of Scotland, Sunday is still kept throughout the Orkneys in its old covenanting integrity. In foul weather or fair the people troop from their cottages regularly as the day of rest returns, and the families that live furthest from the church are generally first in their pews. An increase in the number of churches has made Sunday sailing less common or necessary than in former years; but fisher boats, laden with worshippers—grey-haired old men and white-hooded matrons—may still be seen gliding across the ferries between Egli-shay and Rousay, or Papa Westray and Wes-tray. While a high tone of morality and reli-gion pervades the mass of the Orcadian peasantry, it must be acknowledged that the ghost of superstition has not yet been finally laid in the old realm of the Valkyrie. "Trow tak' thee" may be set down as an innocent bogy phrase, intended to frighten children, and indicating no real belief in the existence of a nineteenth century malignant race of fairies or dwarfs. The fanfastic notion, still preserved in curious legends, that drowned people were changed people were changed into seals, bas also passed away.

Old women, however, still retain an unac-countable aversion to turbot, and avoid naming this excellent and respectable fish when cross ing sounds and bays in boats. Some people also deem it unlucky to call things by their proper names at particular times, and there is a strange prejudice against turning a boat widdershms, or contrary to the sun, at the be-ginning of a voyage. In certain districts the people only marry when the moon is growing, believing that the waning moon is "fruitless" a superstition which recalls the words of "Theseus" in the Midsummer Night's Dream:—

'Chanting faint hymns to the cold, fruitless moon." Thursday is also esteemed the luckiest day in the week for marriage. In former years the belief prevailed that if a cow were killed when the moon was in the wane, the beef would dwindle in the pot. Should the first lamb of the season be white, the omen is still regarded as fortunate, and the appearance of a black lamb is deemed unlucky. So late as 1814 there lived an old Beldame in Stromness, named Bessie Miller, who sold favorable winds to mariners at the low charge of sixpence. Increase of Insanity Among the Poor in England. The London Review says:-"That insanity is largely on the increase among our poorer classes has long been admitted by those who have specially directed their attention to the subject, is much in the recently published report of the Commissioners in Lunacy, despite its lamentably defective statistics and decided lack of information on vital points, in support of the painful and disheartening allegation. Of the 31,917 lunatics officially mentioned as remaining on the 1st of January, 1867, in the various county and borough asylums, registered hospitals, metropolitan and provincial licensed houses, and naval, military, and state criminal asylums in England and Wales, no less than 25,998 belonged to the pauper class. On the 1st of January, 1868, the number of insane patients confined in these institutions had risen to 33,213; this marked increase being wholly among the pauper lunatics, the number of which, at that date, was 27,361, the better class of pa-tients exhibiting a decrease of 67 during the same period.

"These figures do not include the patients houses; this species of information being apparently considered of remote importance by the Commissioners, who merely inform us—in separate table—that in the 299 workhouses in England and Wales visited under their direction in 1867, the number of insane, idiotic, and Inbecile inmates was 7987. As to the number persons of unsound mind residing as single patients, either in lodgings or with their relatives, the Commissioners do not condescend to vouchsafe any information whatever, although in their previous report they obligingly men-tioned that the number of such persons then actually under their notice was 6861. It is perfeetly clear that if we desire to stay the forther progress of insanity in this country, we must as a mere preliminary step, acquire a consi-derably larger amount of definitive information respecting the actual extent to which cerebral diseases prevail among the community in general, especially among the poor; also, respecting the real or probable causes of the same."

Political.—Last evening a mass meeting of the Republican party was held at Mermaid Sta-tion, near Chesnut Hill. There were about one thousand persons present, all of whom seemed to enter fully into the spirit of the meeting. The speakers' stand was tastefully decorated with national banners, flags, and Chinese lanterns, The meeting was called to order at a little before as c'clock by Joshua Comley, Esq., who proposed as chairman John Francis, Esq. Speeches were made by the Hon. A. K. McClure, Hon. Caleb N. Taylor, Hon. Charles Gibbons, and Hon. Henry Wilson, of Mass. The latter said:

I am glad to see this large assemblage of the citizens of Philadelphia. It has been my privilege, during the last three or four weeks, to see ens of thousands of Republicans in Maine, and I came here to say that, while the country looked to Maine, and as she has spoken so intelligibly, now all eyes are directed towards Pennsylvania. We look to you with entire confidence. You will stand where you stood during the civil war—by your country and the men who fought for it. Our issue is as clearly pre-sented as it was on the field of Gettysburg. Then the country understood that the Grand Army of the Republic, engaged in perilous battle, carried our flag against the foe who sought our destruction. To-day two grand armies are waging a political war, one led by Grant, who never surrenders (applause); the other by Seymour and Blair. At Gettysburg they fough seymour and Biair. At Gettysourg they fought with bullets, now they fight with ballots. They are fighting the same battles over again. And now I wish to say that if Pennsylvania, Indians, and Ohio vote for the Republican cause, General Grant will be added. be elected. All understand this, and the Democracy will use every power to defeat him. But my opinion is that Grant is sure to be elected (cheers), and a large majority of Con-gress will be elected to support Grant's adminstration. (Interrupted by movements of the Invincibles.) In looking over this assemblage see before me men who have, by manual labor, to support the wives of their bosoms and the children of their love. Now, if you look into God's holy word, you will read how our first parents fell from their purity to eat their bread by the sweat of their faces. Portions of the human family, forgetful of the rights of common humanity, have deluged the land in blood, debauched the soul, and brought men into degradation in order that they might eat their bread by the sweat or others. Our laws are founded on Christianity, and on the prin-ciple that all men are created equal. Those who believed in caste plunged this great country into civil war, and buried 300,000 men who tought for the country, and wounded 400,000 more. And to-day we have the men who bathed this nation in blood for the sake of caste going into a National Convention at New York, and imposing these ideas upon the people:—1. That the reconstruction laws of Congress are revolu-tionary and void. 2. Equal taxation—that the poor man shall be taxed equally with the rich. These principles are put into that platform by the interest of privilege and caste. To-day the Democrat stands as the mortal enemy of every working man of the United States. He had been born poor and had to work for a living and he has some interest in a laboring man. He challenged any man to meet him on that issue. The Rebellion was made in order that the Democrats may eat their bread in the sweat of other men's faces, no matter whether black or white. Because they are weaker we must help to protect them. Our duty is to help those who need it. The black men are men. We shall live and die and be buried with them. We have reconstructed the States and given them a liberal Constitution. We have provided them with the common school system, their plantation system, their platform system, their industrial system, Labor in South Carolina is respectable now. We have built up their society, and the lovers of liberty everywhere thank us for it. Now the Rebel leaders tell us we must overthrow all of this; that we must relinquish all we have gained to the big landholders again.

—A meeting of Democrats was held last evening on Sixth street, below Oxford. Thomas S. Armstrong presided. Speeches were made by Mr. James B. Nicholson, Hon. A. V. Parsons, John W. Stokes, and others.
